Forum on Education vs. Incarceration to be held in TOWN

A forum to view and discuss the Connecticut Public Television documentary Education vs. Incarceration: The Real Cost of Failing Our Kids will be held on DATE, at TIME, at PLACE. The event is free and open to the public.

Connecticut is one of five states to spend more on prisons than on higher education. This short film highlights youth programs aimed at changing that statistic. The discussion will focus on what average taxpayers can do.

After making the documentary, CPTV partnered with the Connecticut Juvenile Justice Alliance to organize forums around the state to help communities understand and address the issue. The Alliance has spearheaded major juvenile justice reforms that have improved public safety while reducing the number of youths sent to the state's most expensive juvenile justice programs.
